TuongVan Do
Planning Commissioner

Brisbane has been my home for close to a decade now and its interests have become my own. I cherish its small town character and strong community sensibility.

I plan to utilize my legal skills and integrate my five years of planning experience, and as the current chair of the Planning Commission, to work towards increasing economic vitality balanced with sustainable environmental policies. This can be done with carefully managed improvements and a proactive creative approach to community needs.

I respectfully ask for your vote and thank you for your support as we move forward to make our community ever better!
