

CONFLICT RESOLUTION/MEDIATION

The Brisbane Police Department offers conflict resolution and mediation through the Peninsula Conflict Resolution Center.

The Peninsula Conflict Resolution Center (PCRC) is a public benefit corporation serving individuals, groups, and organizations throughout San Mateo County. They provide conflict prevention, management, and resolution services and promote the use of non-adversarial processes in a wide variety of situations. PCRC services empower people, build relationships, and reduce violence.

The Brisbane Police Department has seen great success with residents that have used this service. If you're having a dispute with a neighbor over parking, noise, pets, etc., or if you are just not getting along, then please consider using this unique and worthwhile service. You don't even need to contact the other party. PCRC does that for you to facilitate the mediation process.

If you are interested in mediation services, please contact the police department at (415) 467-1122 or PCRC directly at (650) 513-0330.

You can also see them on the web at www.pcrcweb.org